VICTOR TALKING MACHINE CO. FILE DATA

(16000 Series)

Excerpted from

THE VICTOR BLACK LABEL DISCOGRAPHY, VOL. I

by JOHN R. BOLIG

Winner, 2010 ARSC Lifetime Achievement Award

PUBLISHER'S NOTE: The following listings reflect only what is shown in the surviving Victor Talking Machine Company documentation. Aside from some composer and show credits, nothing has been added or inferred.

Recording locations prior to the opening of the Camden studio on November 7, 1907, are not listed. The bulk of Victor's recording prior to that time was done at their Lombard Street studio in Philadelphia. However, the locations are not shown per se on the recording ledgers for that period.

Note also that conductors were rarely shown in the ledgers at this time. Although some published works have listed Walter B. Rogers as conductor on these sides, Rogers was just one of several house conductors active at this time, and there is usually nothing in the ledgers to confirm or refute his presence.

We have listed all American Quartet issues, regardless of Murray's presence or absence. Victor did not always list the full personnel (indicated by the notation "NL"), which varied from one session to another. Based on the aural evidence, Murray is present as the lead tenor on the vast majority of the American Quartet recordings, but there are exceptions — Walter Van Brunt, for instance, replaced Murray on Victor 16962, based on obvious aural evidence. However, that information is not confirmed in the Victor ledgers, and therefore will not appear in the listing that follows.

Dates shown in bold are the recording dates. In some cases, these are remakes of earlier recordings, or in turn were remade at later dates. Dates shown in italics represent the duration of listing in the catalog. A relatively short duration often indicates a less common recording. S/8 indicates the use of a transcribed master, mechanically dubbed from an original pressing. These are sonically inferior to the originals and are generally avoided by advanced collectors.

Corresponding issues are shown on the "Victor:" and "HMV:" lines. The four-digit Victor numbers are the original single-sided issues from which the 16000-series pressings were coupled. The HMV numbers represent English issues on Gramophone, His Master's Voice, and related labels.
